In the center, a person with short grey hair gesturing with their right hand raised. On the right, a man with glasses and a beard wearing a blue shirt. They are all seated and appear to be in a meeting or talk.

As we transition from the old industrial economy to a new economy based on collaboration, we are changing how we work, how we build businesses and how we use resources. In the new economy, companies will partner with individuals to deliver local, customized and specialized goods. In a world with a challenging future, we need to follow a path towards community and abundance.

Shared Voice

The RISD Presidential Speaker Series offers a forum for welcoming some of the most expansive thinkers of our times to campus. Each speaker is a master of his or her domain but is also ready to transcend it, sharing the RISD community's own belief in the fruitful exchange of ideas that happens when artists, designers, activists, scientists and other scholars really talk and listen to each other.

Intentions

I chose Dieter Rams, Michael Bierut, and Zaha Hadid for my three speakers. I admire their works and I wanted people to know more about their works on shared voices. I differentiated from the original website from color palletes, humors, and navigation styles (Slides).
